"Times" Daily Short Story

Bandit Comes Home

By ERNEST POOLE

"All right, I guess he's ready now," the doctor answered quietly. "Good luck to you, boy."

small faces were crowded close around the wide window and peering in. "And it's perfectly awful to think of, though I guess he'll go to the chair for this," he murmured. "No, he won't," the doctor said. "A small boy would be a great deal more likely to be hanged than a man who has been in the state prison once, and I've seen where they do it, too."

"Where?" the boy asked. "The gallows," the doctor answered. "The gallows are in the state prison, and I've seen where they do it, too."

FIGHT BEGUN ON BAY CITY RAIL BONDS

Survey by Experts of $4,700,000 Proposed for Lines Requested

SAN FRANCISCO, May 13. (Exclusive)—Opposition of considerable weight to the proposed $4,700,000 bond issue for extensions of the municipal railway system developed today in the passing of a resolution by the Downtown Association disapproving the issue. In its membership the association has many of the men who usually are identified with any movement for civic betterment.

Selection of an impartial committee of experts to determine the future of municipal and privately owned transportation lines, as was done in clarifying the trolley bridge muddle, was advocated by Dr. Horace A. Allen, chairman of the association's public-utilities committee, which returned the report.

"This is an effort," Allen explained, "to lay out a plan of ownership that will be economic and business-like. It is designed, he said, "to spare the city a economic waste" of duplication of existing facilities, the latter being properties of the Market Street Railway Company.

The bond issue of $4,700,000 comes before the voters in June.

NEW YORK CURB STOCKS

NEW YORK, May 13 (AP)—Trading in many issues on the curb market today reached broad proportions, and the list as a whole displayed considerable strength. Buyers again were inclined to seek out usually inactive stocks with good earnings or dividend prospects.

Public utilities were among the favorites in the buying movement, several new highs for the year, or longer, being established in this division, although there were a few soft spots. United Gas Improvement went up 2 points to 108, while Southern Power and Light touched 51 1/2, both new tops.

Oil shares exhibited somewhat irregularities, Creole Syndicate and Petroleum Development, while Occidental Petroleum, a few others showed further response to the efforts to correct the overproduction crisis.

Rumors that a settlement has been reached in the Argentine meat war, strength of Swift International, which went up nearly 3 points to 51 1/4, a new high for the year, being another factor in the buying movement.

Developed for Coudes, which also touched a new top at 37 1/2, Tubine Artificial Silk soared 1 1/2 points to 24 1/2, a new high for all time, while American Hawaiian Steamship, Calumet of America, common, Royal Baking Powder and United States Gypsum were among the numerous strong spots.

Reactionary tendencies were shown by a number of industrials and specialties, including Fajero Sugar, Calumet Company, New Jersey Zinc, Palm Oil and a few others. Few of the losses, however, were greater than a point or two.

The market was in a position to move up or down, but the buying was strong, and the selling was weak.

SARDINE CATCH OUT OF SEASON

Unusual Phenomenon of Run in May Taking Place

Five-Day Delivery to Cannery More Than 1000 Tons

Packer Declares Occurrence an Unheard-of Thing

The fishing industry, with its infinite vagaries and foibles is experiencing another unusual phenomenon this week, a run of sardines in May. It is an unheard-of thing, according to Frank Van Camp of the Van Camp Sea Food Company, Inc., the normal sardine season closes in March, and when it didn't close this year it still didn't close in April. The industry has been in a state of confusion since the beginning of the season.

RAILWAY DEAL PLANS PUSHED

Final Votes to Appoint Committee
and Eastern Export Targets for Attack
and Allan Line Up
in Vigorous Opposition

The scheme of the Parrot railroad machine to acquire the properties of the Los Angeles Railway Company and the city of Los Angeles street-car business was announced yesterday when the city council, 13 to 2, appointed a committee to negotiate with the owner of the lines, E. Huntington, or his representative, for the purpose of an option on the properties.

Not only are the railroads
feeling the increase in westward travel, according to Abi-
born, but indications are that the motor travel will rival any similar season Los Angeles has experienced.

The anticipated rush, forecasting a banner year for Los Angeles, points out Mr. Arnold, probably is due in a large measure to the efforts of the Chamber of Commerce. Last year the chamber distributed through its convention department alone 274,800 pieces of literature in all parts of the United States.

MERCURY CLIMBS HIGH

May Heat Mark Beaten as Weatherman
Rams Southland Temperature to 98

Los Angeles and Southern California sweltered in the grip of a heat wave today as the mercury soared to 98 deg. in the city and reached 100 deg. in some places. In many of the surrounding areas higher temperatures were recorded with Redlands topping at 102 deg. and Azusa at 101 deg. The heat was particularly oppressive in the morning and continued through the day. The mercury fell to 88 deg. at night. The heat was particularly

RUSH DUE WITH LOW RATES

Railroads Ready as New Year
Schedule Takes Effect
Tomorrow

Present indications in Chicago and the adjacent territory forecast a tremendous influx of tourists to Los Angeles
during the summer months, according to a wire received by A. G. Arnold, secretary and general manager of the Chamber of Commerce, from J.
Frederick Albion, the chamber's Chicago representative.

With the special summer rates taking effect tomorrow, the railroads have stated that special sections will be added to carry the large numbers of tourists. Trains to Los Angeles from Chicago now are running in four sections, the wire stated.

Not only are the railroads
feeling the increase in westward travel, according to Abi-
born, but indications are that
the motor travel will rival any similar season Los Angeles has

mitted by the City Council, declaring the public necessity and the intervention of the city of Los Angeles and the Board of Water and Power Commissioners of this city, to acquire by condemnation proceedings, or otherwise, the electric generating and distributing systems, and certain lands, rights of way, and all appurtenances thereof, of the Los Angeles Gas and Electric Corporation, for the purpose of supplying electrical energy to the inhabitants of the city of Los Angeles, and to serve sections contiguous to the city of Los Angeles, within the county of Los Angeles, and authorizing the necessary proceedings for such purpose be adopted."

Hall's proposal to instruct the City

MAN PURSUED BY COYOTES IN CITY JIBES AT WEST'S PASSING

With coyotes chasing belated chauffeurs along the rim of a canyon only twenty minutes away from the heart of Los Angeles, residents of the northwestern section of this metropolis have begun to doubt the authority of the man who bemoans the passing of the golden West.

Leroy Bryant drives an automobile for the Mt. Washington Educational Center. Yesterday he went to "the morning town" by street car and, arriving at the Center late in the evening, discovered that the tire had been tripped from his Ford by somebody.

Leroy decided to walk to his home, a few blocks away. According to his story, when he was about even with the school house on San Rafael avenue, he had a strange feeling that he was being "shadowed," and, glancing around, saw a full-grown coyote creeping toward him.

"Only some poor old dog," laughed Leroy's friends when told of the incident. "You were dreaming, kid."

"Dream, your foot!" exploded Leroy. "I've seen dogs before but I'd never seen a coyote, although I'd seen their pictures and when I saw that thing there in the moonlight I knew what he was and I knew he didn't have any friendly feelings toward me. I slung a rock at him and he scented, and as I ran, I heard a bunch of coyotes barking down in the canyon. I sold my bawls and old-fashioned buggy and left the wildcats of the Tennessee mountains only to come to civilized California and have my tire stolen and get chased by coyotes."

All I got to say is, it's a lucky thing for my chickens that I haven't any chickens."

OFFICERS NAMED BY PURCHASING AGENTS

Results of the annual election of the Purchasing Agents' Association were given out yesterday as follows: president, Robert M. Ketchum of the General Petroleum Corporation; vice-presidents, C. Ther-burn, Pacific Electric; Bob Adams, Union Pacific; and William Jackson,
Axelson Machine Company; secretary,
Henry Bruce of U.S.C.; national director, Pele Kerman of the Thomas Haverly Company; and Warren Ward-man, Western Machinery Company.
W. W. Story, the retiring president,

DOROTHY CARLSON OF UTAH CAPTURES FORENSIC HONORS

Second Place Won by Orrin K. Earl, Jr., of Pasadena With Gregson Bautzer of San Pedro Third and Stump of Long Beach Fourth

Dorothy Carlson of Salt Lake City, the only feminine entrant, captured the great oratorical sweepstakes of the Southwest, The Times Grand Finals in the Fourth National and Second International Contest on the Constitution, before a throng that packed the Shrine Civic Auditorium last night.

Utah was entered in this contest for the first time, and immediately annexed the highest forensic honors in this section of the country. Miss Carlson will receive $500 in cash;
will represent the States of California, Utah, Nevada and Arizona in the National Contest in Washington on the 27th inst., and will have a free tour of Europe as the result of her victory in this event.

Others in the contest and the order of their finishing follows:
Second—Orrin K. Earl, Jr., Pasadena High School; prize
$250.
Third—Gregson Bautzer, San Pedro High School; prize
$100.
Fourth—Harwood Stump, Long Beach High School; prize
$50.
Fifth—Bernard Jefferson, Manual Arts High School; prize
$25.
Sixth—Howard J. Conn, Fresno High School; prize, $25.
Seventh—Frank Ford, Humboldt County (Nevada) High School; prize $25.
Eighth—William Kimball, Tucson (Ariz.) High School;
prize $25.

Miss Carlson, who previously had captured the State championship of Utah, thereby winning entrance in The Times Grand Finals, chose for her subject: "What the American Constitution Should Mean to an American Citizen." In her oration she followed the struggles of mankind in his constant effort to rise above his environment. She pictured his struggle in Europe, his breaking the bonds and venturing on almost

ORATORS LUNCHEON GUESTS

Alexandria Affair Attended by Persons Prominent at Bar and in Educational Circles

Preceding the feast of oratory of the Fourth National Oratorical Contest on the Constitution at the Shrine Civic Auditorium last evening, the Alexandria ballroom was the scene of a gay event yesterday noon at which the youthful high school orators who furnished the evening's menu were the guests of honor, together with the winners in the several district finals. Mentors and coaches of the many participants in the earlier and final stages of this contest were on hand to lend a cheering presence in advance of the grueling contest of the evening.

Leading citizens of Los Angeles, several of its faults—which he pointed out and which he averred would undoubtedly still need correction at that time, despite the present activities of Vice-President Dawes to revise the rules.

Almost without exception the speakers stated in various forms their belief that the oratorical contest as instituted by The Los Angeles Times in 1923 is the outstanding educational feature of the country for the last generation. The manner inwhich it had seized upon the imagination of the leading educators of the nation was stressed, as also was its far-reaching beneficial effects upon the citizenry of this nation and the world.

The Lancer

by
Harry Carr

THE French have a legitimate kick coming in the Capt. Ruttenger case as regards the stories published in the New York papers.
Fakes describing his successful landing, what he "said" when he arrived safely in America.

JOURNALISTIC COOTIES
It seems as though the American public ought to have protective against these crawling journalist lice.

But there seems no adequate remedy at hand.
As long as the public continues to fall for the "fabulous" of New York, they will continue to bleed.

MANHES
The "manher" is now occuping the public eye once more.

He is one of the mysterious modern civilization. Just when satisfaction these poor slugs are get by crowding up against a glass in a theater and guttering out
"Hello Dears" in a hoarse stage
whisper is unadmirable.

As an actress, she is cock-
ing her head up as it were.
When arrested, they ought to be put in a psychopathic ward—
instead of a hobo cell.

MISS MACKAYE
As far as the swooning Miss Dorothy MacKaye is concerned, the jury is already in.

Compared with that which has already happened to her, there is nothing the court can do, there would matter much.
As an actress, she is cock-
ing her head up as it were.

Which, in a way, is a pity, for she had a good deal of real ability and might have made her mark.

ROUGH STUFF
It is curious to see how crime runs in cycles. For a period, it is poison; then shootings, no crimes of brutal beating, like the Kelly-Raymond case and the Gray
Snyder affair.

When I was a police reporter, I would see some woman brought in for killing her husband and reporters would say: "now wait them come." Every time the woman would simultaneously reach the family six-shooter.

CRIME CYCLES
There is something more in it than either mere coincidence or suggestion.

I once took the trouble to look through the criminal records of Los Angeles. I found that crime followed a regular cycle of seasons.

Crimes are more usual happened in the early spring.
Crimes involving business disputes
in the late fall.

I sternly reject the theory that these domestic tragedies happen in the merry month of May because "morning day" comes about the time.

Nothing as friendly as a murder happens in connection with morning day.

CENSORSHIP
Great are the uses of advertis-
ment and censorship.

Except for a few book worms with money to waste, nobody ever would have heard of the new, dirty, un-expurgated edition of "The Arabian Nights." National censorship has now given the book free advertisement that could not have been bought for a million.

"THE TENDER HOUR"

OLD, OLD STORY BORN UP AGAIN;
LOW DANCERS FINE

By Edwin Schallert

The dancers have the best of it. Fanchon and Marco's Terapichores in their presentation "Tasse's Idea" take the palm for popular success this week at Loew's State Theater. Possibly, the picture "The Tender Hour" might also be applauded, if applause were a tribute customarily paid to the program picture, but I doubt whether it would gain a long and loud ovation. It would seem that the stage show is, in the one aspect of its dance ensemble, the capturing source of interest.

It is rather disappointing to think that "The Tender Hour" was directed by George Fitzmaurice, who has, after all, some accomplishments of quality and of dignity to his credit. "The Tender Hour" is, however, not one of them. It is a rather tame and over-sentimental affair, but it does not reflect his more acute artistic perceptions even in its pictorial quality, where Fitzmaurice is nearly always dependable.

One of the most elaborate sets is that of a heavily decorated chamber where the play is set. The room is the bedroom of the Grand Duke, who is the villain of the piece, and a very Von Stroheim-like villain in his thoroughly licentious proclivities.

"The Tender Hour" is the old, old story of the girl who is married off to royalty. Her father trades her for some oil concessions. He ignores the letters sent by the girl with whom she is in love, and forges a telegram to the effect that she is dead.

This all leads to her wedding of the Grand Duke, who dwells on the edge of Paris, and drinks champagne, and takes his story and about a half dozen raw eggs for breakfast. She consents to be his wife, but in name only, and to make matters more interesting her father reappears on the scene on her wedding night, while the Grand Duke is gayly celebrating his marriage.

The picture has less than no purpose, nor is its plot even novel. The climactic scene is a fight where the lower class in and beside the husband, seemingly a rather popular custom nowadays. The finish is done in lively Fitzmaurice style, with lots of dramatic action, but even this cannot save a production based on a very weak premise.

The effective bit of calisthenics outside of this is the duel scene in a rather stagey-looking forest. Here at least Billie Dove is successful in achieving some very effective emotional moments.

Miss Dove's part is a fearful one, but she appears on the whole as a weeping, even while doing much weeping. The setting she does is not consistently her best. Montague Love gives a convincing performance in a role that is almost a burlesque. Ben Lyon does the betrothed and they are quite charming in this instance.

One of the high spots is also Ben Francis as a man about town in Paris. If you recall Mr. Francis' other screen portrayals, this will be a striking contrast. T. Roy Barnes, Buddy Fox and George Kolumbus are a trio of comedians introduced with Koloson getting a surprising number of laughs. Constantin Romanoff and Laska Winter are others.

I imagine that "The Tender Hour" may be popular because it is what is popularly known as the story of a dream of delight, but I sometimes wonder whether even the more discriminating shop girls can get this type of picture any more.

Gene Morgan, who occasionally has some funny antics to produce, Roy Brock, Helene Hughes and others entertain in the stage presentation. But the six couples of dancers are really quite amazing.

TO REPEAT RECEPTION

OF MOROSCO GUESTS

So popular did the reception stage of the Morocco prove recently that the management has announced that another one will be held a week from today. Every member of the audience will be invited at that time to come up on the stage following the afternoon performance of "The Patsy" and meet in person Jack Hammond and John Little, who are starring, and the rest of the company.

Autographed pictures of Mr. Little will be given to everyone attending.

GRACE GORDON SIGNED

Grace Gordon has been signed by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer to play one of the important roles in Clarence Brown's production of Robert W. Service's "The Trail of '92." Miss Gordon's name has now been added to the list which includes such well-known players as Dolores Del Rio, Ralph Forbes, Harry Carey, Karl Dane, George Cooper and many others. Previously Miss Gordon starred in Warner Brothers' Production, "The Brute," and Dolores Costello's, "A Million Bids."

ROMANTIC PLAY

"Down to Camelot," a romantic play written by T. May Hanna of the school of speech of the University of Southern California, will be presented by Olinoria Brown in his Playbox Theater at Pasadena tonight.

SOCIETY DRAMA IS SHOWN

British "high" society comes to the screen this week with the well-known British capital, Universal City, with much of its atmosphere preserved, thanks to the common-sense direction of Edward Seligman and the colorful Americanism in many of the titles.

The society people are represented by Laura La Plante, James Kirkwood, Jr., and Doris, Dorothy Cummings, Oscar Beeg, Robert Ober, Ruby Lafayette and other good British subjects, and the society drama is a picture called "Butterflies in the Rain."

Working from a smoothly running script by Charles Kenyon, Cloman has constructed a plausible enough little movie all about a very rich and very spoiled young lady who allows a group of "intellectual friends" (the quotation marks are used advisedly) to dictate her actions toward a dissipated husband. As the young lady in question, Miss La Plante, contributes her well-rounded and thoroughly consistent characterization which goes a long way in making the ensuing events seem natural and believable. However, the picture is not without its faults. One can understand the motive which prompts it.

In all probability, James Kirkwood is good enough as the husband, but the ineptitude of the director will find him just the same sentimental. It is a bit difficult to accept him as the "man" of the story, given at his watch and edging uneasily because it is midnight and he is not yet tucked away in his little trundle bed—an action introduced into the picture through no fault of his own, of course.

The remainder of the cast is uniformly excellent. Two brothers who look very much alike, are dragged in for "comedy" relief, but they are not very funny.

The production is nicely mounted, with good undisturbed scenes placed on the background and settings. Except that they are written primarily for typical American audiences, there is no fault to be found with the picture, which is very brief and pointed.

Wins Royalty After Dispute

Miss Florence Reed, Los Angeles playwright, is the victor in her case against Daniel F. Conway, New York independent producer, and has been awarded advance royalties of $500 on her play, "The Devil's Tail," according to a decision of the American Board of Arbitration, which reviewed the case for playwright and producer.

Miss Reed charged, through the Dramatist Guild of America of which she is a member, that Conway violated the new minimum basis agreement, contract recently put into effect. Conway claimed he had no agreement with Miss Reed, inasmuch as she refused to sign a contract. Correspondence between the two was produced and it was on this and other evidence that the decision was rendered.

Tom Barry, playwright and Guild member, represented Miss Reed on the American Board of Arbitration, which is an organization before which disputes such as this are tried out of court. Thomas Broadhurst, playwright, represented Conway. Homer Pace of the Arbitration Association acted as chairman and third member.

Conway pays Miss Reed, according to the decision, he will be in "bad standing" with the Guild, no member being able to call him a play, nor can he produce a play by any Guild member on Broadway.

Road to Fame Begins in New York East Side

"East Side, West Side," the old Broadway song goes, and from the East side particularly, have come many of America's musical comedy and vaudeville stars. The list is too long to give in full, but it contains such names as Weber and Fields, Sam Bernard, Fannie Brice, Willie Howard, and the Barker brothers.

Belle Baker is the last of this group to attain Broadway stardom. She is coming to the Hillcrest Theater, which is a vaudeville and musical comedy, "Betsy," produced by Flo Ziegfeld. Incidentally, another Orpheum star, Jimmy Huxley, was in her supporting cast.

Belle Baker was born on the lower East side of Manhattan, just a few blocks away from the place where the present Governor of New York, Al Smith, was born. Her road has been no easier, no less rugged than that of the girls of the East side who are prompted to follow the footsteps of Belle Baker, and become successful vaudeville and musical stars.

There were eight other children in the Baker home, but none of the others felt the call of the footlights. Belle alone wanted to be a dramatic star so she drifted to Jacob Adler's famous Yiddish repertory theater. She was 9 years old when she made her first appearance on the stage.

'Patsy' Enters Seventh Week in Los Angeles

The seventh week of "The Patsy" starts at the Morisco tomorrow afternoon. When the closing date was announced the box office received a large number of requests for tickets and the management decided to extend the run.

A reception in honor of John Little, leading man in "The Patsy," will be held on the stage following the afternoon performance Saturday. Auto-graphed souvenirs of Mr. Little, who is one of the popular leading men in Los Angeles, will be given to everyone attending.

Key Hammond, co-starring with Little and other members of the well-known Morocco company will be on hand for the attendance which is expected to enjoy meeting the players in person.

"Loyalties," Dickson Morgan's recent successful matinee production, will open the 22nd inst., at Wilkes' Vine Street Theater for a two-week engagement only.

Because of Dickson Morgan's recent success, the management has arranged to present Galsworthy's master play with the same cast that played to capacity audiences for four matinees a few weeks ago. Arthur Lubin, Charles Quartermain, Carl King and Mary Forbes head the all-star cast. Montague Love and Frank Petrol are the only two new names being added to the cast.

This play created interest when it was produced in New York two seasons ago because of the Jewish-Gentile Street Theater for a two-week engagement only.

"The Little Princess," children's play adapted from the story, "Sara Crewe" by Frances Hodgson Burnett, will be given a final presentation at a Hollywood Play House breakfast matinee at 10:30 today. This production, directed by Miss Neely Dickson, will end the series of Hollywood Play House children's production for the season. There are twenty-eight in the cast.

ENGLISH STAR REPORTED DUE

Local players will be interested in a statement which appeared in the New York Times, to the effect that Beatrice Lillie's musical play, "Oh, Pussie," is headed for the Coast via Montreal and Toronto. "Presumably it will spend most of its summer on the Coast," the article continues, "the plan calling for a return (to New York) in the fall. While on the Coast it is possible she will do another motion picture (and is under rather loose contract to one of the film companies), but it is even more likely that she will spend the time visiting her 6-year-old son, who has been living there all winter."

CANTOR SAYS ALLURE OF STAGE IS FATAL

"One week at the Orpheum in Los Angeles is the only stage appearance I'm allowed. Must return to picture after that—Eddie Cantor."

This is the note received yesterday from Eddie Cantor, who comes to the Orpheum tomorrow for one week.

"I'm afraid to trust myself for more than a week or I'll be going back for good," Cantor is reported to have said.

Kelly Trial Lawyers Threatened With Five-Day Jail Terms for Constant Bickering

LOVE MISSIVE READ IN COURT

Wires Between Actor and Miss Mackaye Offered

Valet Will Tell Monday of All-Night Visit

More Notes Reported on Way from San Francisco

Five major developments marked the progress of the trial yesterday of Paul Kelly in Superior Judge Burnell's court. Kelly, young film actor, is charged with the murder of Ray Raymond, musical comedy man, which is asserted to have been the result of a fist fight over the affections of the latter's wife, Dorothy Mackaye.

The highlights yesterday were: (1) A burning love letter from Kelly to Miss Mackaye and a series of telegrams exchanged between them, and (2) a valet's testimony that Kelly and Mackaye found their way into the records of the case.

(3) Announcement from the prosecution camp that Teno Yabu, formerly Kelly's Japanese housekeeper, ready to take the stand on Monday to give testimony that Miss Mackaye remained all night at Kelly's apartment in Hollywood.

(4) Counselors at the trial were threatened with jail sentences of five days each by Judge Burnell for continual unnecessary haranguing among themselves, which delayed the progress of the case.

(5) Information that additional letters and telegrams exchanged between Miss Mackaye and Kelly are on their way from San Francisco to be introduced before the jury when the case resumes Monday after the usual week-end adjournment.

(6) The giving of testimony by Miss Mackaye of a defamatory letter to the character of her husband during her cross-examination by defense counsel. Due to the fact that Monday morning is Judge Burnell's regular law-and-morale day the case was adjourned until 3 p. m. that day.

Miss Mackaye was still on the witness stand when court adjourned yesterday afternoon and will be recalled at the resumption of the proceedings on Monday. When she left the stand she said her nerves were shattered and she was glad when the trial came to adjournment.

Chief Defense Attorney W. L. Gilbert and Dep. Dist. Atty. Murray were threatened with jail sentences each in full by Judge Burnell for continually arguing between themselves. The arguments between the counsel came as the aftermath to a bitter controversy over the right of the state to introduce the testimony of Miss Mackaye with a transcript of a statement she made to police on the day of the death of her husband.

Two telegrams dispatched to Miss Mackaye by her husband and a letter written to her by Kelly were admitted as evidence by the court. Other telegrams exchanged between the defendant and Miss Mackaye were withheld from evidence to await proper identification.

It was announced by Mr. Murray and Dep. Dist. Atty. Kemp, who is assisting him, that other letters and telegrams sent by Kelly and Miss Mackaye have been located and are on their way from San Francisco to the trial. It is expected these will arrive in time to confront Miss Mackaye with them when she resumes her testimony on Monday.

Miss Mackaye was on the witness stand all day yesterday. In the afternoon she became faint and requested the court to take a recess to give her a few minutes' rest. This was done and she appeared refreshed when she resumed the stand fifteen minutes later. She was in a state of exhaustion, however, when court took the week-end adjournment and left the courtroom eating heavily on the arm of her chair. Miss Helen Wilkinson.

Mr. Gilbert's cross-examination of the asserted victim's widow chiefly concerned Raymond's alleged drinking habits and an attack he is said to have made upon her last New Year's Eve when she testified, he beat her and dragged her into a closet. Her jaw was sore and she was unable to eat for two days, she said.

one occasion spent the night at Kelly's apartment, failing to come home after the theater. It was said that Yabu also is expected to testify concerning other visits of Miss Mackaye to Kelly's apartment and of gifts parties said to have taken place while Kelly and Miss Mackaye were present at the accused man's dwelling.

The two telegrams sent by Raymond to Miss Mackaye were admitted in evidence by the court to refute Miss Mackaye's assertions that she and her husband were estranged and were "just friends." They also were admitted to show, the prosecution informed the court, that Raymond was still in love with his wife and that he blamed Kelly for his domestic troubles.

HUSBAND'S NOTES
The first telegram from Raymond to Miss Mackaye apparently was his answer to her request for a loan of $200. This telegram as well as another he sent her follows:

You are my wife and mother of my children. There is no such thing as a loan. My heart is breaking. Dorothy, for God's sake let me know immediately what it is all about.

AIMED AT MURDER
The defense camp sought to show through Miss Mackaye yesterday that on the night of Kelly's fight with Raymond, witness Teno Yabu, who was formerly the Raymond's housekeeper, indicating that Miss Mackaye, on more than she was not afraid and did not think it unusual to leave her with Miss Lee. Miss Mackaye appeared deeply affected when Mr. Kemp displayed to her a photograph depicting Raymond as a strong man, which was introduced by the defense to offset assertions Raymond was not strong and unable to defend himself against Kelly's onslaught. She said the picture was taken seven years ago and that her husband drank a great deal and had to be in a healthy condition to fill his part.

The prosecution went on at great length into what discussion Miss Mackaye and Kelly had about marriage. She admitted they had discussed marriage, but that they had no definite plan.

NO DEFINITE PLAN
"The reason you had no definite plan was because Mr. Raymond was ill to be considered," she was asked. "Naturally, that was the natural conclusion," she responded.

Much of their discourse about marriage, she said, however, was in jest, explaining: "It is very hard to explain the friendships among our profession. We say things among ourselves. We say things that we would not understand or approve of. Mr. Kelly and I often talked in a sliding way about getting married, but we never had a definite plan."

The witness said she knew Raymond seven years before they were married. She said she was first carried on a stage when she was 18 months of age in Denver, Colo., and had been on the stage ever since, with the exception of the time spent for her husband's service before and after her marriage, she said. Raymond drank very heavily. She was asked what happened last New Year's. She said she had arranged to meet her husband after the theater that night, but through misunderstanding they failed to meet and she went home. He had been drinking, she said, and he beat and dragged her into a closet. She had a fight with her, she stated.

When Mr. Gilbert started to question her from the contents of the document, she testified that she really remembered the things the state's attorneys had sought to elicit from her.

BURNING LETTER INTRODUCED
The prosecution struck its first blow at the defense contention that the associations of Kelly and Miss Mackaye were of a purely platonic nature by the introduction of a burning love letter from him to her and a series of telegrams which were exchanged between them.

Miss Mackaye and the defendant shuddered when the long epistle—replete with endearing passages of his love for her and containing several phrases in so-called pig Latin—was displayed to her. She readily identified the handwriting as Kelly's and admitted its receipt while she was playing at the Curran Theater in San Francisco during the latter part of last March.

BOTH AFFECTED
When Miss Mackaye read the contents of the letter as she sat in the witness chair, it seemed to sap her strength and she asked the bailiff for a glass of water. It appeared to affect Kelly deeply as well and while his counsel was examining the document his face flushed and he was ill at ease.

In a loud voice Mr. Kemp read the letter to the jury, stopping several times to ask Miss Mackaye to translate the phrases in pig Latin. This she did without hesitation.

The spectators, many of them gaily dressed rappers, uttered as Mr. Kemp exposed the contents of the document. The jurors also smiled faintly and shook their heads sadly, as if in pity for her brother.

CROSSES AT BOTTOM
The letter opened with the salutation "Darling, Miss" and closed with "And Miss Always—my adorable—Paul."

Across the bottom of the letter were a row of crosses with the words, "Count them and that's the end."

Even telegrams exchanged between Kelly and Miss Mackaye were also introduced before the court. These, however, have not yet been introduced into the evidence as a proper foundation had not been laid. They were marked for identification.

The letter and the wires were introduced, the court and jury were informed, to show a motive for Kelly's asserted premeditated attack upon Raymond which is declared by the state to have brought about his death.

Mr. Kemp informed the court the telegrams from Raymond to Miss Mackaye were introduced to refute her testimony that she and her husband had agreed to a separation; that they were "just good friends."

Miss Mackaye was still on the witness stand when room adjournment was taken and the afternoon session was commenced at 2 p. m. Only twice did she seem affected—first when she read the letter, and second, when she told of the death of her husband.

She opened the resumption of her testimony by telling of an occasion when her husband ordered Kelly from his home during a party. She said Kelly asked the reason and when Raymond declined an explanation, Kelly said:

"If you don't tell me the reason, I'll tell you—think I'm in love with your wife."

"Well, you're right," she quoted Raymond as saying.

Kelly was pictured yesterday morning by Miss Mackaye as a real "stage-dog Johnny" and a "Don Juan." While her car was laid up for a considerable period she said he called for her at the Belasco Theater in Los Angeles and found her home. She also admitted that he visited her dressing-room many times and that often he was alone with her there.

She admitted the receipt of other letters and telegrams from him and asserted she had sent him letters and telegrams the could remember just how many were sent and received by her and continually resorted to the phrase, "I don't remember" for her answers. She said she had sent her rose while she was in the north.

BEEN HERE IN SANTA BARBARA
While she played in Santa Barbara, Kelly drove up with Miss Wilkinson and visited her. He stayed overnight in a room in the same hotel, she said.

Referring to signs in the letter Miss Mackaye declared, "The old lady" meant Miss Helen Wilkinson, her chum; that "Mrs. K" meant the elegant Mrs. Kelly; and that "M.P.P." was the elegant Mr. Paul Michael Kelly.

"You and your husband were friendly," she was asked. "Just because a man and woman have decided to separate is no reason they should be angry at each other," she declared.

Two weeks prior to her husband's departure from San Francisco, she said, they decided to separate.

GOES TO "CALL HIM DOWN"
On the Saturday night of the fight, she said, she returned home between 10:30 and 8 p. m. and then left and went back to Kelly's home. She said she went back to "call him down" for beating her husband.

On Sunday she took her husband to the hospital in the afternoon. On that day she visited Kelly's apartment, she said.

She didn't see Kelly on Monday, she said, nor on Tuesday. She said she was on Tuesday night at 5:30 a. m. Tuesday and that she was in bed from 10 p. m. Monday night until a short time before his death. She said she wept quietly but never composed herself.

MAY LAST WEEK
Predictations were made yesterday that the trial will continue through next week before it finally is given to the jury of eight men and four women. The prosecution has yet to call to the stand the Japanese housewife, Miss Wilkinson, Max Wagner, room-mate of Kelly; Mr. and Mrs. Perry Asken, friends of Raymond; Dr. W. J. Sullivan, who attended the dead actor; and a number of others.

It already has been announced Kelly was in his own right in his own behalf and that Mr. Gilbert plans to put on several prominent physicians in an effort to show that Raymond was a man of natural cause and not from any blows struck by Kelly or violence on his part.

In obtaining the same principals—Mrs. A. R. Cedarholm, mother of Raymond, and his friends, Doris Kelly, sister of Kelly, and his friends, Miss Lee and a number of others—were in their customary seats in the courtroom. The mauling crowds were introduced into the evidence as a proper foundation had not been laid. They were marked for identification.

Letters Boost Temperature at Kelly Trial

after several heated clashes between the opposing sides, a few rumbles, a number of fouls and yardage gained by the prosecution, time was called for the end of the first quarter in the big Kelly classic yesterday afternoon, and play will not be resumed until Monday afternoon.

Dorothy Mackaye occupied the witness box the living day, and it must be said to her credit that her dominant and manner of speaking was much more human than when she started out Thursday. Some of the accusations and her involved testimony seemed to try her beyond endurance, and her answers had a bit of exasperation and snippiness in them, but she recalled her role in time and lapsed back into the singing sweetness of her former style.

Miss Wilkinson watched her intently all of the time, as does Paul Kelly, but she studiously avoids looking at either of them, especially Kelly. On a number of occasions during her examination the repetition of questions and her involved testimony seemed to try her beyond endurance, and her answers had a bit of exasperation and snippiness in them, but she recalled her role in time and lapsed back into the singing sweetness of her former style.

The climax of the morning session was the introduction of the telegrams and a letter into the testimony. The telegrams weren't so startling, but even during the reading of those the rocks of the audience began to crumble. Kelly looked rather pale and starry-eyed, Miss Mackaye acquiesced, perhaps it was merely in anticipation of the letter. It was said that after the reading the temperature in the courtroom jumped from 85 to 90 deg. As an example of the kind of love letter not to write—much less keep—it broke all records, and it brought a smile from the entire courtroom.

Miss Mackaye was still on the witness stand when room adjournment was taken and the afternoon session was commenced at 2 p. m. Only twice did she seem affected—first when she read the letter, and second, when she told of the death of her husband.

COURTS SAID TO EXCEED POWERS

Political Economy Expert Sounds Warning
Voter Blamed for Decline of Legislature
Judges Expected to Be Curb on Unwise Laws

Results of twenty-four years of continuous research and study in the fields of law and government were summarized yesterday by Dr. Charles C. Haines, chairman of the political science department of the University of California at Los Angeles, in a research lecture before an administrative assembly at the university.

The research lecture is given annually by some member of the faculty whose studies have won particular attention. Dr. Haines, who has written extensively on law and government, was unanimously selected to deliver this year's lecture.

In spite of a placid belief among the people in the theory of an equal division of authority between the three branches of government, the fact today is that the judiciary has become the supreme power in government. It is able to nullify and hold void any act of the legislative or executive branch of the government which is regarded as conflicting with the Constitution.

AMERICAN GIRL WHO WON TITLE

Princess de Braganza

The Princess de Braganza, who is likewise the Duchess of Oporto, an American girl, whose musical talents carried her from the Kansas wheat fields to the shadow of the then flourishing throne of Portugal, came into port yesterday aboard the liner City of Los Angeles from Honolulu. She is on her first visit to California.

It had been whispered about the ship that the Princess had been born in Chicago during the gay nineties. One enterprising reporter asked her about her birthplace, but she successfully evaded it. An examination of her alien passenger declaration, however, disclosed her place of nativity and that "King Manuel of Portugal" was her next of kin.

Then came one Charles E. Webb, a civil engineer of Honolulu, who explained that he was "sort of looking after the Princess" and asked that nothing be said about America being her highness's native land.

The distinguished visitor wants to live in line to ex-King Manuel, now living in England in exile, to the throne of Portugal, because of the recent death of Manuel's brother, Prince De Braganza, of whom she was the coronation traveling alone, is on a tour of the world. Following a short stay in Southern California, she will go to New York and thence to Paris, her present home.

COMPLAINT IN THEFT OF RARE VIOLIN

Asserted Stealing Here of Zimbalist Instrument Leads to Behymer Action

L. E. Behymer, Los Angeles importer, appeared at the District Attorney's office yesterday and obtained a complaint against Herman Schvill, now under arrest in Chicago, for the theft of a violin, valued at $8000, the property of Etren Zimbalist. It is also charged that the man under arrest stole two violin bows valued at $1800 in all, and an overcoat valued at $100, all the property of the violinist.

According to the information given by Behymer, Zimbalist was playing his violin at the Philharmonic Auditorium on April 4, last, when during the final pianissimo, the asserted thief entered his dressing room and took the articles, but he successfully evaded it. An examination of the alien passenger declaration, however, disclosed her place of nativity and that "King Manuel of Portugal" was her next of kin.

Grass Blazes Give Firemen Strenuous Day

The Los Angeles Fire Department turned out yesterday for eighty-five grass fires up to 7 p.m., according to announcement by Fire Chief Scott. The day was a strenuous one for the firemen, and the apparatus is still rolling.

"Meanwhile," continued the Chief, "the City Council neglects to make the owners of vacant lots clean them up."

He declared it is dangerous to children, to pedestrians and to the firemen themselves, to have so much apparatus out on the busy streets, to say nothing of the expense, and the grass fires are a real nuisance. "If the owner of the property is known we can have police serve notice on him to clean up, but this is slow and unsatisfactory. We need a real police force to set, for this is a real emergency."

OLD-FASHIONED MEAL REVIVED

Southern Pacific to Try Out Traditional Meal on Coast Trains

Because American tourists and travelers, after old American customs, the old-fashioned dollar dinner has been revived on California dining cars, according to J. E. Walsh, in charge of dining-car service for the Southern Pacific in this city.

According to Walsh, the one train that carries more eastern tourists than any other is the Daylight Limited operating between Los Angeles and San Francisco. This train has been picked for the experiment in dollar dinners, both midday and evening.

"It won't be any skimpy affair, either," Walsh said. "The old American dinner, as revived in the dining car, will consist of five courses—soup, fish, entree or meat course with at least two vegetables, salad, desert, hot biscuits and tea, coffee or milk."

"We have been experimenting with this type of meal on another of our fast trains. The results indicate that the old-fashioned American dinner is a national institution still popular, and still resisting foreign innovations."

AGE DECLARED OUT OF JOINT

Lions' Speaker Thunders on Modern Ways
Women Told to Keep Homes, Forego Suffrage
Schools Should Fit Youth for Working Life

Why women should want to be men's equals and smoke, drink liquor in violation of the law and dabble in dirty politics is a mystery to him. Judge Charles E. McLaughlin, member of the California State Board of Prison Directors, told members of the Lions Club at their luncheon in the Biltmore yesterday. It was an anti-form meeting held jointly by the Lions and the Southern California Association of Detective Agencies.

Incidentally, it was ladies' day at the Lions luncheon and Judge McLaughlin, who belongs to the Biltmore Lions Club directed most of his remarks directly at them and at their sisters who were not present.

"Why do you want to come down to our level, when before you were our superiors?" the judge demanded of women in general.

"A social revolution has taken place without its being noticed," he said. "Four million men went away to serve the flag and 4,000,000 women took their places in business, and are holding them by their ability. But the effect of this change is serious. Women should realize their duty. Men must be so situated that they can earn enough to found, build and support a good American home. Women must not deprive them of that right. But I am not going to solve this problem. God and native American intelligence will work it out."

"But what do women think that with political equality they gained the right to abdicate the duties that God imposed on their sex? They were happy when they stayed at home and were supported by their fathers and brothers and then they are with their selfish idea of equality. Oh woman, you are making a great mistake. You have given into your hands lives to train. What can you do greater than to have a salubrious young man who is climbing high in the world place his arm about your shoulder and say, 'My mother!'

Beside Judge McLaughlin as he spoke at George H. Ruloff, judge of the Municipal Court, who briefly described for the Lions' work with women who are brought into her work. Her work is largely with girls who have come into the city as victims of the victim of apostate mothers, she said.

Nicholas, a head of a detective agency, had charge of the program yesterday.
